Minden holds the line on taxes

Zero increase still provides for purchases, projects

by Russ Duhaime

Minden residents are in for a break this year on their taxes. For the second year in a row, council has introduced a budget that's easy on the pocketbooks.

A year ago, council managed to maintain a one per cent budget increase. This year, they did better.

Council finalized its new budget last Thursday, unveiling a zero increase and a litany of development projects to boot.

What's more impressive is that the balanced taxes defy funding cuts from the province. Reeve Bern Berry said income from the province has dropped by about $16,000 in unconditional grants and road subsidies. Further, this budget includes the estimated costs involved in staging a municipal election this year.

Still, the municipality will not be standing still this year. Instead, several projects and purchases are included in this budget.

Minden will be taking advantage of the cost saving from the street light conversions made last year; the fire department will be supporting one new truck and a used and refurbished truck; the roads department has purchased its new tractor and will be paving six kilometres of Duck Lake Road and Reynolds Road; the Library and Cultural Centre will get a new roof, and the Museum complex will have the added attraction of the Hindon Hill School House.

In addition, the township is still planning to take advantage of the federal/provincial infrastructure grants for a variety of projects. Since Minden's share of these costs will come from reserve funds, it will not have an impact on local taxes.

The township has applied for $656,000 in assistance under the infrastructure program to proceed with an expansion of the municipal offices, river bank restoration, upgrades to the sewer and water systems, culvert replacements, reconstruction of Bobcaygeon Road and improvements to the municipal tennis courts.

"Kudos and congratulations to members of council and staff for bringing in this realistic budget," said Reeve Berry. "This process was achieved through good planning and management."

Although Minden has managed to keep its share of the tax bill in check, residents will still see a 5.5 per cent increase when the bills arrive. The increase is due to the county and education budgets, which went up significantly this year.

What's Up: Kari Siirala sneaks a peek at the crescent outline of the sun during the eclipse last Tuesday. Siirala donned welders goggles, with a double set of lenses to protect his eyes and for extra protection he also had a welders' shield handy. The shadow of the moon over the face of the sun could be seen distinctly through the tinted glass.

Robber still on the lam

by Jerry Grozelle

An arrest warrant has been issued for Roger Oake, 40, in connection with the robbery of the Bank of Montreal branch in Haliburton last Tuesday.

Minden OPP report that a lone male, described as being in his mid 30s, tall, thin with red hair, a couple of days' growth of beard and a flat nose presented a note to a teller demanding money. He fled the bank with an undetermined amount of cash and was seen leaving the rear parking area of the bank in an older model large brown car of unknown make.

Witnesses later identified the robber as Roger Oake. He is believed to have been living in the Haliburton area off and on for the past year but police believe he is from the Toronto or Uxbridge area.

"I was really proud of the staff," said bank manager Lorne Hoppenreys. "They did everything right. The most important thing is that no one was hurt."

Lynne Kilpatrick, Manager of Media Relations at the Bank of Montreal's Toronto office commended the teller, saying: "She handled the situation very professionally."

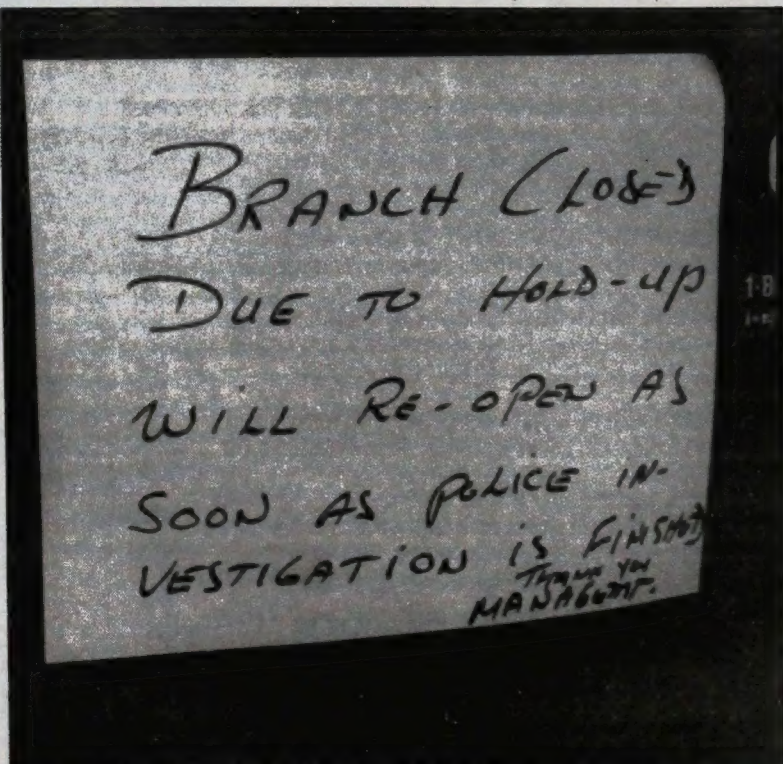

Kilpatrick said that there were several customers in the bank at the time and "most of them weren't even aware of what was going on."

The Haliburton branch is 15 years old and this is the first time it has been robbed.

The bank wouldn't say how much cash the robber got away with but Kilpatrick said it was not a significant amount.

As of Friday, no arrest had been made.

The last bank robbery in the area happened in 1946 at the Stirling Bank in Minden when about $100,000 worth of bonds were taken from deposit boxes

The Bank of Montreal in Haliburton village was closed for several hours last Tuesday following a robbery.

New staff reporter has local ties

The Times would like to introduce and welcome its newest staff reporter/photographer, Kelly Pettinger, to the Minden community.

Kelly has just graduated from the two-year journalism program at Algonquin College in Ottawa and is happy to have found a job in her field.

Kelly is originally from Peterborough, Ontario and has been coming to her family cottage, located on Bob Lake, every summer since she was born.

If the name Pettinger sounds familiar, then you are probably right at guessing that Kelly is somehow related to Minden residents Ed and Peggy Pettinger. She is their granddaughter, and they are delighted to have Kelly in town.

Kelly hopes to meet lots of interesting people who will hopefully give her a good scoop on a story, and tell her where she should go for fun in Minden.

So if you see a young girl walking around town with a green camera bag and a smile on her face, say "Hello," it'll probably be Kelly.

Kelly Pettinger has joined The Times editorial staff as a reporter/photographer. The Algonquin College journalism graduate has spent numerous summers at her family's Bob Lake cottage and is looking forward to spending more time with her grandparents, Ed and Peggy Pettinger of Minden.

Please Note.....

The movie theatre advertisements appear on page 3 of the SummerTimes section of this week's newspaper.

Event boosts SIRCH house fund

Speaker presses for women's equality

by Kelly Pettinger

The Supportive Initiatives for Residents in the County of Haliburton raised about $1,400 from a special dinner and raffle on May 7. The event was held to raise funds for the soon-to-be built emergency house.

More than 75 people paid $25 for a huge turkey dinner from Double D Catering, and served by the women of Haliburton's Curling Club. Guests also heard Sunera Thobani talk about issues concerning women in society, the economy and women, and inequality and abuse against women.

Originally, Thobani, who is the president of the National Action Committee for the Status of Women, was to speak about reproductive technology. But when the emergency house project experienced problems, she decided to talk about inequality problems and violence against women.

"We live in a time where there is a real backlash on violence against women. We live in a society where we are treated unequally. This has to change," said Thobani.

She went on to express her anger as she gave statistics on the violence against women in Canada. She said 51 per cent of the women in Canada have said they were abused, and most of the abuse women have sustained was experienced before they were 16 years old.

Thobani recalled an interview she had on CBC Radio when a person phoned in and told her NAC should be working in South Asia. "People deny that (abuse) happens in Canada," said Thobani.

Some men who care about violence against women have questioned Thobani about why NAC is for women only. She explains, "We need a place of our own. We gain strength and power from this (women's) movement. When we build this movement, there is nothing that can stop us."

She rounded off her speech by saying, "We need to take affirmative action to counter discrimination. If we're going to end violence against women, then we will have to end inequality."

This was followed by a thunderous applause and loud chatter of people discussing the speech. "That was a lot to digest," one woman said.

The evening ended with entertainment from the Stringy Bark Treeo, and a raffle of paintings donated by various artists who are part of the Studio Tour.

Local girl is published poet

Sarah Rochford is a published poet.

The 15-year-old student from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School had one of her poems published in a book entitled "Tears of Fire", a treasury of today's poetry compiled by the National Library of Poetry.

Sarah's poem is called "I was the One Who Cared". It is a three paragraph poem about feelings.

Sarah has been writing for about two years and her favourite subjects and ideas are feelings and what people are like.

The National Library of Poetry seeks to discover and encourage poets like Sarah by sponsoring contests that are open to the public and by publishing poems in widely distributed hardback volumes.

Tourism a growing industry, students hear

Life is not a race, it's a journey

by Kelly Pettinger

Get a job in tourism!

That was the message students received at the second annual seminar on careers and the future at HHSS on May 6.

Students of all grades were invited down to the gym and split into two groups to hear guest speakers discuss the subjects of careers in tourism and the information highway.

The featured speakers were Paul Burton, an instructor in the tourism management program at Georgian College, Bryan Brown, Haliburton County's Futures co-ordinator and Jim Pierson, a computer technologist.

MPP Chris Hodgson made a short appearance to start things off and to give the students an idea about their future in post-secondary education and careers in today's changing world.

"Being successful today is different than it was years ago," said Hodgson. Due to technology, the world has changed."

He told the students to look for something they like to do and take it in college or university. There are many different aspects to discover in one type of career, such as tourism, making the choices endless. He specified that jobs can change, but areas of interest won't.

In his speech about tourism, Burton said he was happy to see the county is thinking of tourism as a profession instead of a hobby, as it used to be.

Burton gave the students a sense of what a career in tourism would be like. "Tourism is the world's longest and fastest growing industry. Tourism is big and offers lots of opportunities. It is a vital source in Canada's economy."

To show how vital, two videos were shown on the subject. The videos were short and commercial-like, but to the point. And the point was—take tourism in college.

On the other side of the wall, Pierson, the computer whiz, talked to the students about the information highway. He showed off his excellent knowledge and skills through four television sets, and one big screen, which were connected to the computer.

Unfortunately the screens were slow, causing the students to become restless and lose interest. But when Pierson phoned up his partner, Terry Smith in Pennsylvania, and talked to him through the computer, the students perked up and listened.

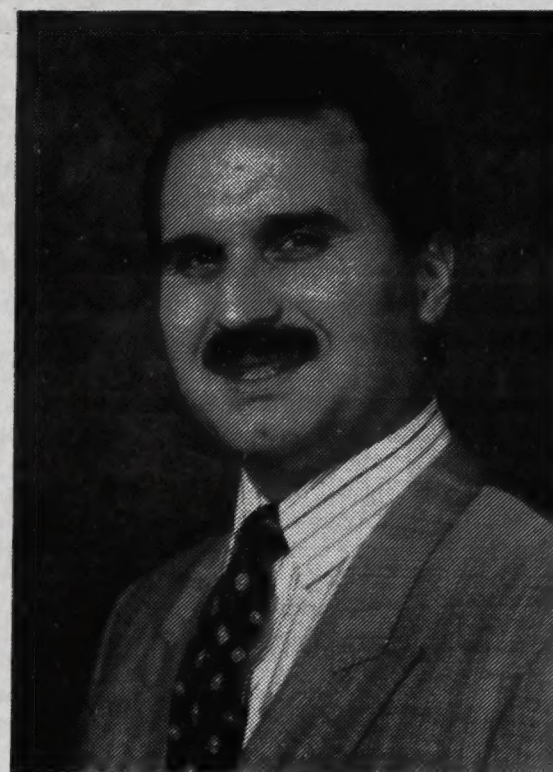

The seminars were short-lived, due to the dismissal bell, but they left the students full of information and wondering about the future in technology and tourism, and remembering the words of Hodgson, "Life is not a race—it's a journey. I hope everyone will have an enjoyable journey."

Tourism is no longer a hobby, Paul Burton told HHSS students. It's one of the fastest growing industries in the province.

"Becoming a funeral director has helped me to mature, to understand people's needs. I have a new understanding of the importance of life."

A candid talk about funeral direction with Cameron G. Monk.

Cameron G. Monk, Funeral Director

"When you grow up in the funeral profession, I think you grow up a little faster than the normal person. Knowing the reality of death helps you appreciate the value of life even more.

"That's one of the reasons I chose to become a funeral director. But today, my job is more than understanding the importance of life. It's understanding what's important to different people in life. People have a lot to teach you if you're willing to listen.

"Everyone has different faiths, customs, and occupations.

To help families design a service which truly compliments the life of their loved one, you have to be completely open and understanding to every different need. That's what good funeral care is all about.

"Helping people in our community through a difficult time and easing their transition to a new life is a feeling that is second to none. That's why I'm proud to be a funeral director at Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home."

Job shadowing a hit for senior students

ASES students spend a day at work as they learn the tricks of the trades

By Kelly Pettinger

If you saw 13-year-old students running the town on May 6, they weren't truants: it was a day of job shadowing.

During Education Week grade eight students from Archie Stouffer Elementary School participated in Job Shadow Day by spending the day out of the classroom, doing what most adults do best... work.

The activity was a new part of the Career Awareness program in which the grade eight students participate each year. The students sought out individuals in the community who were able to have the student "shadow" them for the day.

The jobs the students selected ranged from a veterinarian's assistant to managing a sporting goods store at Spot 97.

Tara Sisson and Lisa Reinwald spent their day learning about hairdressing at Headlines Hairstyles. Debbie Carpenter was patient as she taught the girls how to style and perm hair.

"Being a hairdresser is okay," said Reinwald, "We got to take out rollers, but we mostly watched."

Over in a corner at Tip to Toes, Debbie Cunningham was teaching Megan Sisson how to give a manicure. "I haven't done one yet, I'm just sitting and watching," said Sisson.

"Being a hairdresser is okay. We got to take out rollers, but we mostly watch."

At the Minden Animal Clinic two students, Amanda Payne and Cheryl Smith, followed Dr. Peter Bennett and his assistant, Tammy Cox and greeted each client and his or her pet as they arrived. One woman arrived with a box of husky puppies.

"Oh, aren't they cute," Payne cried as she held one which had just received its first set of shots. For the rest of the day they observed the doctor and his assistant, and learned all about working in an animal clinic.

At Spot 97, Chris Nielson, 13, had a chance to follow manager Greg Carpenter around his store. Nielson learned the ins and outs of owning a business.

"We're just about to do inventory," said Carpenter.

Other students had the chance to be teacher's helpers, shadow at the hospital, and even be a reporter at The Times.

Overall, the students had a great day, and claimed it would be an experience to remember.

Is it too cold? Lisa Reinwald, top, asks Tara Sisson if the water should be hotter. The students were practising on each other at Headlines Hairstyles.

Pressure a little high? Tonya Gartshore, left, looks unsure of Kathy Anderson's blood pressure as she watches the meter and checks Kathy's pulse at the Minden Hospital. During Job Shadow Day, Tonya, 13, followed doctors, nurses and the cleaning crew, learning all the facets of working in a hospital. She felt the experience went well, and liked the hospital environment.

Aren't they cute? Students Amanda Payne, left, and Cheryl Smith spent their day at the Minden Animal Clinic, with Dr. Peter Bennett. They watched as these puppies received their first set of shots.

Not too sharp please! ASES student Megan Sisson, middle, learns the secrets of being a manicurist from the owner of Tips to Toes, Debbie Cunningham, as she files Sharon Crowe's nails. This was Megan's first attempt. Megan realized that giving manicure is not as easy as it looks. If the nails are not done to perfection, the customer will not be satisfied.

Merchants launch alert program

Scam artists should steer clear of Kinmount

by Jerry Grozelle

The merchants of the Kinmount area are sending a clear message to would-be scam, fraud and rip-off artists. That message is "stay away from our community."

Kinmount has joined the growing list of communities that have instituted a Merchant Alert Program.

Representatives from most of the Kinmount area businesses turned out for a meeting at the Kinmount Community Centre last Thursday evening. Of the 26 area merchants, 21 have signed up to become part of the program.

Both the Coboconk and Minden OPP detachments were represented at the meeting to outline the program to the assembled group and to answer questions regarding police protection in the area.

Merchant Alert is a crime prevention program. It is designed to alert all of the area merchants of such things as counterfeit money being circulated, cheque scams, groups of shoplifters and other criminal activities which might victimize local businesses. The Alert works through the police and a network of business people.

As Senior Constable Dave Fletcher of the Coboconk OPP explained, if somebody is passing bogus $50-bills in Lindsay, for example, that information is passed to neighbouring OPP detachments. Coboconk OPP would then contact one or two key people in the Kinmount merchant network and a telephone "fan out" of calls would be initiated.

Those key people would then notify the rest of the businesses in the area of the nature of the scam and relay descriptions of the suspect(s), as provided by the OPP.

"That way all of the merchants in the area can be notified within about 15 minutes as opposed to us spending two or three hours on the phone trying to contact everybody," Fletcher said.

In all cases, the network of telephone calls will be initiated by the police.

All police offices are constantly being alerted, through their information systems, of scams and rip-offs that victimize merchants. The information they provide serves as preventative medicine, making sure that merchants are aware of possible rip-off artists in their area.

Member merchants may report suspicious activities or an actual scam or fraud attempt to the OPP. Someone trying to cash a suspicious cheque or trying to use a cancelled credit card are common rip-off attempts. Police would dispatch an officer to investigate and the situation would be assessed and a decision made whether or not to activate Merchant Alert network to notify other merchants.

A distinct format is used to prevent any confusion. If the alert is of the "be on the lookout for" nature it would be identified as such. If it is "Merchant Alert Incident Information" it represents an actual occurrence within the community.

Whenever details of an occurrence are provided, such as credit card numbers, currency serial numbers or subject descriptions, each person in the network is asked to write the information down and read it back to the caller. This is to ensure the accuracy of the details that are being relayed to each merchant.

The action a merchant should take in the event that the subject of a Merchant Alert enters his or her place of business is clearly spelled out.

Rule number one is: Never attempt to arrest or take any action that will place your safety at risk.

The steps that should be taken are: notify police immediately; make detailed observations of the suspect; observe and make a note of any vehicle or other persons associated with the suspect; and if the suspect(s) handle objects, take care not to handle them yourself so finger prints can be obtained from the objects.

The Kinmount Merchant Alert is only the second to be organized in the Coboconk OPP's coverage area. A similar program was instituted in Fenelon Falls about a year and a half ago through the co-operation of Fenelon's Community Policing Committee and the Fenelon Falls Chamber of Commerce. The two organizations worked with Constable Fletcher and Constable Trish Pollock to get the program off the ground there.

The Merchant Alert program is relatively new. It was developed in Caledon, Ontario about five years ago.

Among the OPP representatives at the meeting in Kinmount last week was Staff Sergeant Dennis Edlington of Minden. He will be presenting the details of the program to the Minden Community Policing Committee with the goal of getting the program started here.

Congratulations

It couldn't have gone to a more deserving person.

Richard Kirkwood's Ontario Senior Achievement Award recognizes decades of commitment to the betterment of his community. We are delighted that Minden Council nominated him for the award and that the Province of Ontario has recognized his achievements.

Without people like Dick and Laura Kirkwood, the Minden County Town Museum would never have developed into the budding heritage village that now exists. Several years ago when the concept was brought to the public, many scoffed at the pie-in-the-sky scope of it. However, through the determination and labour of Kirkwood and the entire museum committee, the heritage village has continually progressed and expanded.

Congratulations, Dick.

Well Done

If people used just one measuring stick to tell how well their municipal council was functioning, it would be the budget. This annual document is a telling reflection of a council's financial management during the past year, and its ambitions for the year ahead.

This measure of success, though, is more than the bottom line. A zero increase is obviously what most are seeking, but success or failure must also be measured by the goals that are set out in the budget — the projects, purchases and reserves that are planned to ensure infrastructures are maintained in good order.

For two years running, Minden council has earned top scores by this measure. Not only has it succeeded in holding the tax increase to just one per cent over two years, but it has also completed several important projects and has more planned for the year ahead. It has also managed to maintain strong reserve funds which will make it possible for the township to capitalize on the federal infrastructure grants.

Kudos on a job well done.

Reflections or Distortions?

Suzuki shows his true colours

Editor,

I am a regular reader of David Suzuki's Reflections. He is usually like a leper's bell warning me about the pending left wing movement's attempts at controlling my life. Most of the time he can hide his goals behind some rage of the moment topic that appears to justify further government control or a global cult of anti-science. The Times May 9, page 22, "Goldman Prizes Awarded" clearly unmasked this parasite for what he really is.

The goldman prizes appear to reward anyone who can help stamp out individual rights and or stop someone creating prosperity and a better standard of living. The first Canadian Goldman winner was Colleen McCrory. Wasn't she the trespasser who organized the tree spiking in B.C. to endanger wood cutters' lives and stop people from making a living in the forestry industry?

The second Canadian Goldman winner is Matthew Cooncome. He has the honour of being responsible in pressuring the Quebec government into stalling Hydro Quebec's Great Whale River Dam. The dam would have created billions of dollars worth of pollution-free hydro, thousands of man-year jobs and an economic boon to a province that desperately needs it. Instead, every working person in Canada has to pay more for welfare and UIC while many people sit at home wishing they had work. Thank you David Suzuki and company for helping our government bleed us to death so you can save the nesting ground of the Do-Do bird or something.

Other award winners organized a million people to strike in Ecuador, stop oil drilling in the Amazon Basin and organized 1,200 local councils to stop using tropical timbers.

If David Suzuki and his gang get their way, you will be forced to live in an environmentally friendly home made without wood, glass, shingles, heat, hydro or comfort. From your unsanitary cave, you can ask permission of David Suzuki's World Council if it is okay to kill the maggots that are eating the last of your family's food.

If you think I am wrong about David Suzuki's gang and their intentions, I challenge you to read Atlas Shrugged by Ayn Rand. I have found it to be the best test to tell if someone's actions are good or evil.

Jim Battarbee, Minden.

Tories, teachers blamed for county's financial woes

Editor,

Twice in the last few months I've seen Haliburton County described in the local papers as the poorest county in Ontario. We just had a by-election where we (not me, though) voted in a Conservative. The Conservative Party's number one motto is: Let the rich get richer, let the poor get poorer. Mulroney worked hard on that one and was very successful. I've been told that the last many years Haliburton most often voted Conservative, so of course, it's a poor county. I do believe, though, that in the last by-election people voted more for hockey than for politic. But in any case, for the poorest county in Ontario to vote Conservative is a mighty poor joke.

Now there has been further cutbacks to our Board of Education. So taxes have to go up even more. Having voted in a Conservative again, we'll get poorer again. Had we voted NDP, I'm apt to think we'd have gotten the grant without further cuts. It cost money to bet on the wrong horse. It's all politics and always was. But since Haliburtonians haven't learned that yet, it's doubtful they ever will.

The solution to the Board of Education's difficulties is very simple: Cut the teachers' pay, pensions and retirement tips by 20 per cent. And don't let them retire in their early fifties and collect a big fat pension for 30 or 40 years. I heard in the news last winter, when the teachers were striking in Windsor, that the average yearly income there was $33,000 while for teachers it was $53,000. With a 20 per cent pay cut, they'd still be well above average. In Haliburton County the teachers' pay is no doubt at least double the average income. Let them strike. Lock them out across the province and their enormous "war chest" would soon be depleted and they would be a lot easier to talk to. And for what they do, with a 20 per cent pay cut, they'd still be overpaid. I can only look at them as people taking great advantage of their profession, as unfair parasites on the taxpayers' back.

Pick-up effort sets an example

Editor,

We write this litter to publicly thank Mrs. Irene Alexander. This spring she has dedicated her time to clean up the roadside on Horseshoe Lake Road #1. She has spent several days picking up refuse along the road and with her son, Greg, has carted it away.

If all the people were this caring, Minden would certainly be a clean place to live. Thank you again, Irene.

Tobacco rogues keep their crafty art alive

I am not a crook.

Richard Milhous Nixon
1913 to 1994

Well, actually Dick, you were a crook. A crook who only escaped a sabbatical in the slammer by means of a self-generated Presidential pardon and a sacrificial offering of 30 of your backroom boys, right up to and including Attorney General John Mitchell.

They did time. Tricky Dick got to walk on the beach at San Clemente and work on his memoirs.

Still, he's gone now and I have to confess I miss the man. He was a world-class rogue and you don't see them much anymore.

There was a time when rogues were a dime a dozen. Al Capone, Machine Gun Kelly, The Boyd Gang, Harold Ballard.

And nowadays? I don't know if we're in the midst of a Virtue Revival or if the bounders of the world have hired better PR agents. All I know is that industrial-strength scumbags are thin on the ground these days.

Well . . . rare, perhaps . . . but not extinct.

We do have the U.S. tobacco executives.

The chiefs of the seven largest U.S. tobacco companies spent five hours testifying before the U.S. House of Representatives in Washington recently. The Feds were trying to find out exactly what goes into cigarettes and just how dangerous smoking is. The tobacco executives were there to assure the government just how swell and inoffensive cigarettes were. They cooed in seven-part harmony that gosh, tobacco is not addictive — just a pleasurable habit — like a morning cup of coffee.

Now that's chutzpah. That is deception that raises the art

"Well, when the president does it, that means it is not illegal."

Black'n White

by Arthur Black

of lying from the merely repugnant to the magnificently repugnant.

You and I know that those tobacco executives sure as hell know that cigarettes (and the 700 additives they pump into cigarettes — everything from insecticides to coconut oil) kill half a million North American every year.

You and I know and those tobacco executives sure as hell know that even as their North American markets shrink they are preparing to blanket Asia with their advertising campaigns. The leathery visage of the Marlboro man already squints down from billboards in Bangkok and Singapore, Beijing and Ho Chi Minh City.

You and I know and those tobacco executives sure as hell know that millions will be seduced by those ad campaigns and millions will be hooked on tobacco and millions will die.

And yet there they stood in Washington in their three-piece suits, purring and smiling.

And lying through their snowy-white, capped teeth.

I wonder if their mothers know what they do for a living.

I wonder what they think when they look in their bathroom mirrors each morning.

Probably they think much what Richard Milhous Nixon would think, were he to come face to face with his five o'clock shadow over a sink tomorrow morning.

My favourite Nixon moment occurred when the then-disgraced ex-president was being interviewed by British television interviewer David Frost. Frost wanted to know how Nixon could explain his approval of a plan of action including such criminal ingredients as burglary and the opening of other people's mail.

Nixon heard the question, looked at Frost with those black-button eyes and replied without a tremor:

"Well, when the president does it, that means it is not illegal."

Sound screwy to you? Me too.

But I betcha tobacco executives would understand perfectly.

On the Street

by Times Staff

It was not difficult to feel the pulse of commerce in the Highlands quicken this past week as merchants prepared for the first holiday weekend of the summer cottage season. We noticed quite a few seasonal residents have already made their foray north, perhaps to beat the crowd and air out the cottage in anticipation of an enjoyable long weekend. There seems to be an optimism on the street that just hasn't been there for a couple of years, and that's great.

HIGHLAND IMAGES

Everyone has noticed the changes taking place to the front of the building next to Village Donuts on Minden's Main Street. The latest addition to the business community will be moving into the premises on the right. Guy and Nancy Harris of the Highland Images store in Haliburton, will be opening a second outlet in that location. Haliburton manager Kim Cowan says the new store should be ready to open June, 4. Kim is looking forward to introducing the stores interesting and eclectic line of gifts to the community. The Minden Book and Stationery store will remain in its present location.

TENDERLY LOVED

Congratulations to Theresa Pretzer who recently opened a new business in Minden. Tenderly Loved Children's Resale Shoppe, located on McLeod Street, carries lightly used children's clothing, toys and maternity wear and features a line of new children's clothing by Sue Eskelin. This business is sure to be popular with parents and moms to be.

JC MATTRESS

And we welcome another new business to the Minden area, J.C. Mattress. The doors open this Thursday in a portion of the former Moynes Furniture store, corner of Highway 35 and Main Street. Store owner Jim Churko says the new store will carry a selection of sofa beds, furniture and, of course, mattresses. Although the business name is new to the community, Jim is certainly no stranger. He is an employee of the former Moynes Furniture.

THIS 'N THAT

Looking good!...Renovations are proceeding at a feverish pace at the Red Umbrella Inn with this May 20 as the target date....among the many openings this week is the new bakery in Minden, the Bread Board and Sweet Shop on Highway 35; Gramma's Fish and Chips makes its re-appearance next to the Corner Store, Highway 35 and 121; back for another season, the Wedgewood Snack Bar; and Pole Position Kartways.

FOCA did not promote confrontation

Editor

Rather than "perpetuating the myth" of "us versus them" as you suggest in your May 2 editorial, my presentation to seasonal residents at FOCA's Spring Seminar emphasized exactly the opposite approach.

Your front page article got it right and accurately but something happened on the way to your editorial word processor. Sad for me as a speaker who obviously failed to make his point but very unfair to superb cottage country counsellors like Jean Anthon who have sacrificed so much for their communities.

I suggested that "seasonal and permanent residents are coming together in communities across Ontario, at regattas or conference meetings, to protect or enhance these Ontario resources for all to share."

Involvement as electors or as candidates will help all sectors of the community have representation - "when issues of importance to seasonal residents are discussed - financial issues; planning issues; environmental issues - issues that define the character and quality of life that attracted us to those areas in the first place." I could have added the statement that those were also the issues that matter most to those of you who are lucky enough or smart enough, like Jean, to make their permanent homes there."

Your recognition of the effectiveness of good seasonal candidates who act in the best interests of all residents after their election to council was appreciated. In my experience, that's the norm across Ontario.

Instead of celebrating the fact that your community was an excellent example of being mature enough to ignore artificial differences, you choose to hear a different message from our presentation.

We must be more patient with each other and listen with care.

Speech problems can affect social skills

When a young adult entered the office of a speech-language pathologist he explained, "I've had this problem all my life. I have trouble saying certain sounds. I work as a mechanic. I avoid words with ch and sh sounds because people don't understand me. I end up talking all around the word I want to say. For example, if there is a problem in the engine, I say there's a problem in the front end. It's very frustrating. People must think that I'm not very bright. Finally, I got up the nerve to come and see if a speech-pathologist could do anything for me. I didn't come sooner because I thought if anything could be done it would take years."

Three weeks later, when the young man was speaking normally, he thanked the pathologist and said he was going back to college as he wanted a job working with people.

So what difference does it make if a child has abnormal speech, a lisp or a few sounds in error? The difference, as you can see from this true personal story, is that it can make a big difference for a child in his future. A child with a speech problem needs speech-language services from a qualified speech-language pathologist because:

1. Speech with errors stands out, making the listener tune in to HOW the child is talking rather than WHAT the child is saying.
2. Every person should have the chance to do and be the best she can in everything - be it reading, writing, dressing, math, or speaking.
3. The child, embarrassed by making errors, may come to feel that speaking is not fun and stop talking.
4. Friends or classmates may make fun of the speech errors.
5. Speech errors may get in the way of learning to spell or read.
6. Speech errors may cause future problems such as trying out for the school play or taking a job.
7. The child should be ready in every way for entering adulthood and today's skilled job market. Good, clear communication skills are needed for many jobs.
8. Clear speech leads to better communication.

It can be very hard for a parents to judge whether or not a child needs speech services. It is less trying for the speech-language pathologist who bases the judgement on these factors:

1. A knowledge of what is normal.
2. Use of tests that compare the child to a sampling of others.
3. Facts about usual physical growth patterns (for example, if walking and toilet training are late, speech is more likely to be late.)
4. Knowledge of how the ability to repeat sounds correctly affects speech learning.
5. An idea of how the speech problems can affect relations with other children and school success.

The Health Unit can help you know when a child has speech skills within the normal range. It offers information, screening and referral services. Vision, hearing, and speech screening clinics, for toddlers 3 to 3.5 years of age, are offered in February and September. These clinics hope to find children who need help before they begin school. Please call the health unit at (705) 457-1391 today.

Arson suspected in Duck Lake fire

Minden Firefighters responded to a fire that destroyed a home on the Duck Lake Road in Minden Township on Friday, May 6.

The fire is believed to have been deliberately set. Police say the rear door of the house was kicked in and two fires were set. Shortly after the fire started Minden OPP Constables Gooch and McMaster picked up a man about two kilometres from the scene, smelling of smoke and covered in soot.

Charged with arson and breaking and entering is Ryan Coulter, 28, of Brampton.

Golf classic boosts hospitals

Want to rub elbows with some celebrities?

The Dave Andreychuck Charity Golf Classic is an opportunity to get out on the links, drive a few balls, meet some high-profile folks and help out the hospital fund.

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is moving ahead with plans for the July 14 golf classic. The event will feature 36 celebrities teamed 144 golfers at the PineStone Inn.

The Chamber scored big when it managed to convince the Leafs' all-star left wing to lend his time to this worthy cause. Chamber spokesman Bryan Brown said Andreychuck agreed to the engagement on the condition that all proceeds will be put towards improvements and expansions to health care facilities in Haliburton County.

For an entry fee of $175, golfers will have the opportunity to play 18 holes of golf, enjoy a lunch and supper at the PineStone and participate in a celebrity auction.

Each foursome will be matched up with a celebrity in a shot-gun start at 11 a.m. The tournament will be a five-person best-ball scramble.

Brown said the chamber is working on lining up more celebrities and he is optimistic there will be plenty of high-profile people on the course that day. It's not just hockey players, either, said Brown. The celebrities will include all sorts of people. Brown said the Chamber is also working to line up prizes for related contests like closest to the pin and longest drive.

The golf tournament is one of two major events being staged by the Chamber this summer. The other is a major fishing derby to be held on September 10 and 11. The derby is the fifth annual BassOntario Pro Classic and is expected to draw anglers and companions into the area. It is also expected to garner major media attention.

Although the Chamber receives no direct financial benefit from either of these events, Brown says they help raise the county's profile, while also attracting visitors for each of the events.

Wet field, high spirits

It may have been wet and cold, but it wasn't enough to put a damper on the spirits of students of HHSS.

Last Thursday, HHSS track and field athletes left the school at six in the morning and travelled to Peterborough's St. Peter's Secondary School to show off their stuff at the Kawartha meet.

There were a few complaints with regard to the field conditions including an excess of mud and the huge puddles long-jumpers, and triple-jumpers had to land in, but when the sun came out and warmed up the field, spirits rose even higher and the day went along as well as everyone had hoped.

MPPs favour grandfathering FAC renewals

Hodgson leads common-sense debate

Common sense means different things to different people.

To Chris Hodgson, it is common sense to exempt people who have had a valid Firearms Acquisition Certificate and have "demonstrated a solid safety record through many years of shooting experience" from having to take a course and write a test to get their FAC renewed.

Hodgson introduced a resolution to "grandfather" the Firearms Acquisition Certificate at Queen's Park on May 4.

The majority of the members present for the vote on the resolution agreed with Victoria-Haliburton's newly elected MPP and the resolution was passed by a 45 to 30 margin.

During the debate, arguments for and against the resolution were presented.

Hodgson explained to the House that his reasons for introducing this resolution stemmed from the concerns of the constituents of his Victoria-Haliburton riding. He pointed out that hunting is a tradition and a lifestyle for many residents of rural Ontario. He added that firearms are tools that farmers use for predator and rodent control and that recreational and competitive target shooters shouldn't be penalized because of the criminal element's misuse of firearms.

"All first-time hunters since 1960 have successfully completed the hunter education course, which includes safe firearm handling procedures," Hodgson said. "The government of Ontario should automatically grant a firearms acquisition certificate to people who have successfully completed that course and to those who have demonstrated a solid safety record through many years of shooting experience."

Bill C-17, a federal Bill, is the legislation that requires national testing for FACs. But it is the provincial government's responsibility to administer the FAC testing program. Bill C-17 has a provision that allows each province to decide whether to "grandfather" or not.

Ontario Solicitor General David Christopherson has decided not to exercise the grandfather option. The intent of Hodgson's resolution is to change Christopherson's mind.

Guilt by Association

Anthony Perruzza, who represents the riding of Downsview, has

There's only one purpose to guns... to either shatter something or kill something.

Anthony Perruzza

Outdoors

by Jerry Grozelle

a different interpretation of common sense. He seems to believe that people who possess a firearm should be presumed guilty until proven innocent.

"Bang, bang, you're dead," Perruzza started off his tirade in opposition of Hodgson's resolution. "There's only one purpose to guns. The last time I checked, a gun fires a projectile and it's intended to either shatter something or kill something. Whether you're killing a duck, a rabbit, a moose, a deer, a groundhog or a person, a gun has only one purpose and that purpose is to kill."

"He (Hodgson) introduces a resolution that says, 'give all of these guys, automatically, through the mail -- send them a gun'. Give them a gun, and while you're at it, why don't you load it as well?"

Perruzza suggested that someone who successfully completed the testing 30 years ago isn't necessarily "still the same person" and that Hodgson's resolution would turn more than a million gun owners loose on the streets to "get out there and use that gun for what it was intended to do."

Presumably, Perruzza has no first-hand knowledge of firearms and his only exposure to guns is Rambo movies and the Metro media's accounts of murder and mayhem (baseball bats, knives, fire bombs, axes and a host of other instruments of death and destruction excluded).

"That (Hodgson's resolution) is so absolutely an irrational thing. Bang, bang, you're dead," Perruzza concluded.

Are Perruzza's statements those of a rational person with an average amount of common sense?

What Perruzza doesn't seem to realize, or care about, is the fact that the honest, law abiding citizens of this province are not the people we have to worry about. And if he thinks that the criminal element is going to rush out and apply for an FAC he is living in a strange world indeed..

To Perruzza, every gun owner is a potential murderer. Using his logic, every male is a potential rapist and everyone with a valid driver's license who is of the legal drinking age is a potential drunk driver.

What ever happened to the basic premise: "innocent until proven guilty?"

Another View

Michael A. Brown, who represents the riding of Algoma-Manitoulin, had this to say: "What we're talking about today is not, in my view, a gun control measure. Bill C-17 has decided that. The problem is that the Solicitor General of this province has refused to understand the needs of rural Ontario. He's refused to understand the petitions of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. They're asking for what I believe to be a most reasonable suggestion: that people who have completed a very good hunter safety training course and know about guns, be allowed to obtain weapons to do what they have always done. It makes good sense to me."

"I have real difficulty understanding why the Solicitor General of this province can't work with the groups out there that do know about firearms and provide a very cohesive package that protects the public and yet does not put onerous and unnecessary requirements on people who have already proved they can do what they do quite safely."

In the arguments supporting his resolution, Hodgson said: "I would just ask that all members of this Legislature join together to show a bit of fairness and respect for people who have demonstrated that they're law-abiding and use firearms accurately and safely, and that we can go on from here and have a consensus to tighten up on the illegal use of firearms and on criminals. But lets not lump the two groups together."

During the debate, twice as many MPPs spoke in favour of the resolution.

The 45-30 vote in favour of Hodgson's resolution is a step in the right direction for responsible firearms owners. But it won't accomplish anything unless Solicitor General David Christopherson can be convinced that gun owners should not be presumed guilty until proven innocent.

Management Committee seeks savings

Paper Savings

Little things can make a difference.

The Haliburton County Board of Education has found a way to wipe away about $5,000 in expenses by standardizing the paper dispensers at all the schools.

The idea was spawned by business administrator Jim Bradley, who contacted a few suppliers to see if the board would get a better deal by buying all of its paper products (toilet paper and hand towels) from one source. He located two companies that are willing to provide the dispensers if the board signs on to a five-year agreement to purchase their products.

Bradley told the board's management committee that a saving of about $5,000 can be achieved in the first year.

Furnishings

The board's management committee has approved purchases amounting to almost $50,000 for furnishings at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

In addition to the items already approved for purchase, the committee is recommending the purchase of 600 chairs for the new auditorium. The board had budgeted $50,000 for furnishings in the library, music room and administration offices. Since these can be bought for just $36,000, the committee agreed to use the extra for the auditorium chairs.

According to Bradley, the old chairs are in rough shape and could cause damage to the auditorium floor.

Insurance

The committee is still wrestling with the option of shifting away from the Workers' Compensation Board to buy its insurance.

The committee heard a presentation from Don Timmins, who represents a consulting group that is encouraging many school boards to buy out of their ties with the WCB and join a group of self-insured boards.

Timmins demonstrated that the board can save more than $300,000 in fees by 1999.

Although the transfer appears attractive, there is a risk that the board's accident record could change, thereby causing the rates to climb.

The accident record for the Haliburton County Board of Education is low in relation to other school boards.

On the other side of the coin, committee members speculated that WCB fees will soon increase. "It's common knowledge that the WCB is broke," said LeRoy Eager, "therefore rates will be going up."

The board has until the end of May to decide whether it will go ahead with this transfer.

95 attend business function

Ninety-five business people from the county turned out for the third business to business meeting at PineStone last Wednesday.

"I thought it was an excellent meeting," said Mary Jane Williams of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. "There was a strong interest in people doing business with each other."

She described the meeting as "members helping members" and added, "that's what it's all about."

"We're hoping that any new businesses that come to the area will come out to our meetings and say a few words about themselves," Williams said.

This was the third such meeting organized by the Chamber of Commerce this year and the most successful yet. The event was hosted by the PineStone and the Haliburton branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce gained four new members as a result of the meeting.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson was on hand to give a brief speech.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson was the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce's third Business to Business meeting last Wednesday at the PineStone Inn.

"I'm finding it hard to get the agenda switched over to what's important to us in Haliburton County," Hodgson quipped.

"It is our priority to help small business, instead of small businesses working for the government," Hodgson told the audience.

He also noted that the Progressive Conservative party is working toward the reinstatement of the forest tax rebate.

Three draws were held for the evening's participants. Lenore Pristol of Re/Max won a $500 certificate for advertising on CHAY-FM. Jim McMahon of McMahon Feed'n Harness won a serving set donated by the Haliburton CIBC branch and Bob Patton of North Shore Lawn and Garden Equipment won a fruit basket donated by Highlands Garden Produce of Haliburton.

John Gunning of County Commercial Printing in Haliburton was one of the participants at the meeting. He described the meeting as "very positive."

He added that he could see a lot of co-operation between businesses throughout the county.

"There seems to be a great deal of enthusiasm for what the Chamber is doing," he said.

Gunning has been a member of the Chamber's Marketing Committee for four years.

"I find it very rewarding to see some of our efforts coming to fruition," he said. "It's very encouraging to see some very positive and enthusiastic response. It has to bode well for the businesses of the county."

Jim McMahon of McMahon Feed'n Harness in Minden was pleased with the meeting.

"I would certainly encourage them to have more," he said.

McMahon said that he appreciated the opportunity to hear the opinions of other business owners. He said it offered the chance to learn from the experiences of others.

The Chamber is planning another business to business meeting for September or October. Williams said that any business interested in hosting the meeting should call the Chamber of Commerce at 286-1760.

Bunker wins top award

Merv Bunker has once again claimed the best of the show award in the annual Spring Members Show at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden. The talented woodworker and model builder won for his detailed reproduction of the Twelve Mile United Church, a work he entitled Solitude. Merv won the top prize last year with a model of a sawmill. The winners were selected by the visitors to the gallery who voted for their choice in three categories and also indicated an overall favourite. Peter Pennington of Fenelon Falls captured first place in the painting section with his piece entitled Twin Rivers Lake. Second was Elizabeth Carrell with Violets, while Ed Hancock placed third with Kinmount Mill. In the fabric and yarn section, Eleanor Bunker was first with an old fashioned nine-patch quilt. Hanna Casper placed second with a shell afghan, while Sadie Barnes was third with her entry entitled Baltimore Basket Variation. Merv Bunker was first in the multi-media division, as well as best of the show. Jaqui Andress placed second with a painted chest while Doreen Berry was third with her stained glass called Tranquility.

Air gunners reunite at PineStone

About 125 Wireless Air Gunner (WAG) members of the #4 Wireless School from the Royal Canadian Air Force will be attending their annual reunion at the Pinestone Inn from May 27-29.

The group includes members from the United States, Great Britain, New Zealand and Australia.

Years ago, on April 1, 1941, the province of Ontario entered into an agreement with the Dominion Government to rent most of the buildings of the Ontario Agriculture College (OAC), which is now the University of Guelph, for a fee of $1.00 per year. This facility was to be used as a school to train wireless operators for the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

The first class of 190 airmen arrived July 7, 1941, and stayed until the graduation of the 95th entry, Nov. 30, 1944.

About 5000 airmen graduated from the school as wireless operators. They then proceeded to a bomb and gunnery school to be trained as Air Gunners. On the completion of training the airmen were awarded their WAG wing.

The Haliburton county Amateur Radio Club is sponsoring Special Events amateur radio stations, call sign VD3WAG, to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the school. One station will be operated at Pinestone Inn using phone and CW with the WAGs involved.

Timbersport festival is growing

--Submitted--

Minden Timbersport Festival chairman Pat Murphy is a happy man. A couple of weeks ago he asked some local associations if they would be able to help him organize and operate the Timbersport Festival slated for June 11.

He first went to the Minden Business Improvement Area (BIA), and received a trickle of hope. With a promise for greater response and support from the BIA, Mr. Murphy then approached the new-formed Minden and Area Business Association and his list of volunteers greatly expanded.

The way it stands today, Minden's Timber-sport Festival will not only be held as planned, but may possibly exceed the success of last year.

The basic format of the festival will remain unchanged, with the emphasis on logging related skills. The event will expand in many other areas, such as; a Saturday morning pancake breakfast proposed by Village Donuts and Family Restaurant, a Chamber of Commerce initiated CHAY radio remote from the event site, and a vendors alley by the Municipal Building on Pritchard Lane.

Adding to all of this activity, Cowboys That Care are sponsoring an awards dance at the Minden Community Centre with live music by "Bluegrass Connection," a professional band who will be opening a show for Blue Rodeo on May 28 in Haliburton.

Several local business people have stated that Timbersport has great potential as a major tourist attraction for Haliburton County, and Minden in particular. This view is also shared by members of our local council and they have demonstrated their support through financial assistance as well as volunteer support.

Pat Murphy is still soliciting volunteers and hopes to have a phone number available soon so you can call and leave your name if you're interested in helping.

Ecotourism at SSFC

--Submitted--

Sir Sandford Fleming College's new Ecotourism Management program is accepting registrations for this, the first ecotourism program in Canada.

Ecotourism is an emerging trend in the tourism industry around the world. Sometimes called "nature tourism," the focus of ecotourism is to bring environmentally and culturally sensitive travel to natural area, by balancing the needs of the environment and tourists.

A maximum of 60 students will be accepted into this eight-month, post-diploma program. It will be offered through the College's Haliburton campus, in the heart of one of Ontario's most renowned tourist regions, beginning in September 1994.

Ecotourism management is open to students with a two-year diploma in Natural Resources or a two-year diploma in Tourism and Hospitality Industry. University graduates or those with equivalent academic background or extensive experience will be considered based on a Prior Learning Assessment.

Graduates of the program will be able to plan and deliver ecotourism programs that provide a safe and enjoyable travel experience, and combine an interpretation of natural history or cultural environments with visitor involvement. Graduates may work in zoos, museums, aquariums or nature centres, anywhere around the world.

"We're excited about the start-up of this program which will be the first ongoing post-diploma program offered at our campus. Our location, and the joint contributions of our School of Natural Resources and School of Business, towards the development and delivery of this program, make a great fit," says Barb Bolin, Principal of Haliburton campus.

The soul of the museum

Achievement Award goes to Dick Kirkwood

by Jerry Grozelle

The "soul" of the Minden County Town Museum is being recognized with a special achievement award.

Richard Kirkwood will be receiving an Ontario Senior Achievement award from Lieutenant Governor Hal Jackman on June 7.

Dick, as he is known by most of the community, was nominated for the award by the Council of Anson, Hindon and Minden. His commitment and dedication to the community prompted the nomination. In the nomination letter, council described him as "the soul of the museum."

"Dick Kirkwood is a living historian, whose life is approaching 90 years. He is totally committed to his community, both past and present"

Dick and his wife Laura were part of a small committee that approached the Council of Anson, Hindon and Minden requesting that the municipality donate the old Stirling Bank building for the beginning of a heritage village project. The group was successful and, after two years, the bank was moved to its present site on the grounds of the Agnes Jamieson Gallery Cultural Centre and Library. With the addition of the old bank, which is a heritage building, the site became the County Town Museum Complex.

The committee organized the complex as a heritage village and has worked to relocate and restore the bank, a church and the Bowron home (the residence of Minden's first school teacher). The committee continues to strive towards achieving its vision and is planning to bring a store and a school to the complex. Arrangements have been made to acquire a local school house from the period and within the next couple of months it will be transported to the site as well.

Dick Kirkwood's tireless devotion to preserving Minden's heritage will be recognized with an achievement award from the Lieutenant Governor.

Dick Kirkwood's dedication to the museum complex project has been amply demonstrated over the years. When the Bowron home was acquired, he scaled the roof at the original location and helped dismantle the building in preparation for the move. He was 80 years of age at the time.

To help fund the completion of the log "Kirk" or church, both Dick and Laura Kirkwood contributed considerable time and talent. Laura spent a year making a quilt, which she donated to the building fund. Dick personally sold more than $1,000 worth of tickets. He also provided many of the artifacts, including a heritage bible and a five-globe chandelier from the original Methodist church, to enhance the authenticity of the display.

Dick was also one of the volunteer labourers who worked over a period of months to complete the interior of the church.

Dick and Laura dressed in heritage clothing for the official opening of the church and the "box social" that followed.

Dick often makes craft items and supplies plants which are donated for fund raising projects. He built a small table over this past winter that will be sold at the museum's yard sale this summer.

The municipality's nomination of Dick Kirkwood for the Ontario Senior Achievement Award included the following statements: "Throughout the years, Mr. Kirkwood has without question, contributed immensely to every aspect of the functioning of our County Town Museum Complex, to ensure that our facility provides an authentic, historical picture of our community. He was the resident expert on guided heritage walks, pointing out features of the village and bringing to life memories of pioneers. He took part in museum programs open to the public, bringing along tools and discussing pioneer home construction.

Dick also participated in the museum program of making video tapes of pioneers, asking insightful questions which rounded out the topic.

Dick Kirkwood is a living historian, whose life is approaching 90 years. He is totally committed to his community, both past and present"

Richard Kirkwood was born at Mountain Lake in November of 1907. He moved with his parents to Minden when he was three or four years old and has lived in the village, except for a couple of years during the depression, ever since.

Dick jokingly describes himself as a "Jack of all trades, and a master of none" It's doubtful that anyone who knows him would agree with the second half of that description.

For 40 years the Kirkwoods owned and operated Laurdic Cabins on the Gull River in Minden, making many friends along the way. He worked on the construction of Highway 35 and for a time he delivered the mail to Gelert and Elsie (now Blairhampton) in a horse-drawn wagon. His last job before he retired was at Orillia Light and Power, where part of his job included clearing the power lines. That type of work suited the avid outdoorsman, whose intimate knowledge of the Haliburton Highlands was gained through countless hours afield, hiking, canoeing, fishing and hunting.

Dick is a former member of the Minden Curling Club and both he and Laura are members of the Minden Horticultural Society.

During their busy lives, both Dick and Laura Kirkwood have been very active in their church. Dick was an elder of the United Church for many years and Laura participated in the Women's group activities.

Dick and Laura Kirkwood will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary in October of this year.

Lutterworth council clamps down on vendors

Lutterworth Council is clamping down on transient traders and people who sell refreshments from vehicles.

Examples of the types of businesses that will be affected are chip trucks and those which are being opened by a person or persons who have not resided in the township continuously for at least three months.

Two By-laws were passed at last Thursday's meeting of Lutterworth Council, giving the township control over these types of vendors.

A refreshment vehicle is deemed to be any vehicle, defined in the Highway Traffic Act, from which refreshments are sold for consumption by the public.

Anyone wishing to operate such a business within the boundaries of Lutterworth Township must obtain a license from the municipality. When the license is issued, it must be displayed in a conspicuous place while the business is being operated in the municipality.

Such businesses must operate only in those areas of the township designated Highway Commercial in the township's Comprehensive Zoning By-law. Operation of refreshment vehicles in any other area of the township is prohibited.

Operators are required to keep their business premises clean and sanitary and they must provide garbage containers.

All garbage must be kept cleared from the site and garbage must be legally disposed of on a regular basis.

Every refreshment vehicle must, at all reasonable hours be open to inspection by any authorized municipal officer.

In order to obtain a license, the vendor must produce a current written Health Unit approval for a refreshment vehicle. Proof of ownership of the vehicle is also required.

A written description of the vehicle and equipment, the types of refreshments provided and the provisions that have been made for garbage disposal are also required.

Cost of the license is $100 and the licenses expire on December 31 of the current year.

Separate licenses must be obtained for each vehicle.

If the Health Unit cancels its approval or if an operator fails to comply with the By-law within five days of receiving written notice, the license will be revoked by the township.

Licenses are not transferable.

Contravention of the By-law will cost first offenders a fine of not more than $200. Subsequent convictions will result in fines of not more than $1,000.

In the case of transient traders, the definition includes any person starting a business, who has not resided continuously in the municipality for at least three months immediately prior to commencing business and/or any person starting a new business whose name is not on the assessment roll in respect of business taxes.

A license must be obtained from the township before any goods, wares or merchandise are offered for sale.

The license fee will be credited to taxes payable in respect to the business as required in the Municipal Act. The license must be displayed at the business place.

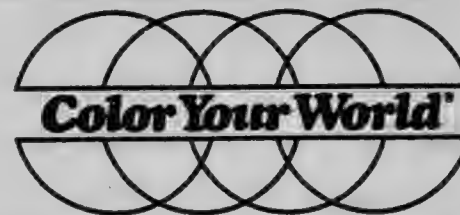

ness place.

The By-law does not apply to the sale of a business to a bona fide purchaser who continues the business or to the sale of stock damaged by fire or bankrupt stock if that stock is from a business that was operated in Lutterworth Township.

The fee for a transient trader's license is $200 and a written statement describing the goods, wares or merchandise must be provided.

The same penalties for conviction of contravening the By-law's provisions are up to $400 for first-time offenders and as much as $1,000 for subsequent offenses.

Casting call for Brigadoon

The performance may be nearly six months away, but auditions for the citizens of "Brigadoon" will soon be underway. The Highlands Little Theatre will be presenting the Lerner and Lowe musical this fall and expectations are high after the huge success of "Camelot". Director Curtis Eastmure and musical director Melissa Stephens have every reason to believe that this show will be every bit as successful. "The story line is not as well known as that of Camelot," said producer Craig Saunders, "but it is a wonderful tale and the musical score will be familiar to most people. It is some of the best music ever written for Broadway."

Auditions for "Brigadoon" will be held on Monday, May 23 at the United Church in Haliburton. Everyone is welcome to audition. If you are interested in booking an audition time and receiving an audition package, stop in at the Mutual Life office in Haliburton or call Craig Saunders at 457-9125. Although auditions are being held early, rehearsals will not begin until September.

Moose tags are now up for grabs

The deadline for applications for the 1992 adult moose validation tag draw is fast approaching.

"The selective harvest has helped the moose population to continue to increase and the draw is an important part of the management process," said Mr. Hampton. "MNR works diligently each year to ensure the draw works effectively and fairly for all applicants."

To be eligible for the draw, applications must reach the post office box indicated on the back of the application form by 4:30 p.m., Monday, May 16, 1994. Applications will also be accepted at local MNR district or area offices.

Hunters can obtain an application for the draw by purchasing a 1994 moose license from any license issuer. You must have a hunting version of the Outdoors Card or a temporary hunting Outdoors Card in order to purchase a moose license.

Introduced in 1983, the moose tag draw is designed to give hunters who are in the same pool, and who apply for the same sex of animal, season, and wildlife management unit (WMU), exactly the same chance of success in the draw. In some WMUs, it is possible for a hunter to receive a tag every year. IN WMUs where the number of applicants is consistently higher than the tags available, it is possible for a hunter to go a number of years without getting a tag.

Any hunter who fails to get an adult moose tag in the draw, may apply for a surplus tag in another WMU. In 1993, there were 2,822 surplus tags available. As well, anyone with a moose-hunting license is permitted to harvest a moose calf.

This year, there are 25,140 validation tags available in 68 wildlife management units. In 1993, there were 96,330 applicants for the draw.

The odds from last year's draw, as well as this year's season dates and tag quotas, are listed in the Moose Hunter's Fact Sheet - 1994, available at MNR district and area offices and licence issuers.

For more information, please contact your local MNR district or area office.

Antarctica demands preservation

Antarctica - the name immediately conjures up images of desolate landscapes and incredible cold, a continent of ice locking up 95 per cent of the planet's fresh water!

I visited Antarctica on a Canadian ship that normally plies the waters between Newfoundland and Labrador. On board as an eco-tourist, I could only vicariously fantasize the physical and psychological challenges endured by great explorers like Scott and Shackleton.

As a biologist, I was thrilled at my first sight of Antarctica's fabled penguins. Ashore as I sat in exquisite intimacy among three species - adelsies, chinstraps, gentoos - I experienced the same emotion I had felt in the Galapagos, a profound gratitude that these animals didn't flee in terror at the sight of humans. Even here in this remote, unforgiving land, the indigenous seals, penguins, and whales have endured relentless slaughter since the last century.

We alien humans were pitifully vulnerable to cold and wet and had to be awkwardly swaddled in bulky outfits. What a contrast we were to the native flora and fauna whose very existence is a testimony to the ingenuity of evolutionary survival mechanisms and life's tenacity.

In Antarctica temperatures are the coldest on Earth, darkness prevails for months of the year and water seldom forms, yet plants and animals manage to flourish.

What appears to our eyes as an empty landscape is actually a thin skin of living things. Forests here are grasses, moss and lichen only a few centimetres high and flattened against thin soil, rock and ice.

The largest land animals are crustaceans perhaps half a centimetre long. But it is the surrounding ocean that throbs with life. The conjunction of warm currents and frigid antarctic waters results in an upwelling of nutrients that support one of nature's marvels of abundance - KRILL.

Shrimplike crustaceans up to

Eco-tourism is supposed to be the new wave, injecting money into communities and providing an incentive to preserve natural treasures.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

five centimetres long, krill grow in such numbers, they form dense red clouds 10s of kilometres long. Krill is the main food for the largest mammals on Earth, as well as massive numbers of penguins.

The profusion of krill is irresistible to human beings with an appetite for new "resources". But krill exoskeletons are rich in fluorine which is toxic to people and domestic animals.

So scientists are hard at work trying to solve that problem and several hundred tons of krill are already harvested each year for use as human condiments, animal feed and fertilizer.

If the toxicity can be overcome, the rush to "harvest" large quantities will be inevitable. Knowing its vital ecological role, we must exercise extreme care in our exploitation of krill.

Our articulate and well-informed guides described the intricate balance of ocean currents, weather, ice and biodiversity that supports the variety and numbers of birds and mammals we had come so far to see.

But time and again, they concluded fascinating observations with "scientists have no idea how it works." This refrain reminded us that our knowledge of biophysical factors and their interactions even in accessible areas, is extremely limited.

In the inhospitable conditions of the Antarctic, our knowledge base is so scanty, virtually all of our current notions and hypotheses will undoubtedly prove wrong in the future.

But in the past, when new "resources" such as king crabs in Alaska, herring roe and geoducks in B.C., or snowcrabs in the Maritimes, have been exploited, they've been decimated before acquiring the knowledge to harvest them sustainably.

Our visits to different permanent research stations operated by Argentine and Polish staffs reminded us that no place on Earth escapes the human race. Humans see opportunity everywhere and now have the technology to exploit it.

Many nations are drawn to Antarctica by economic and political motives, including Chile and Argentina who continue their rancorous territorial disputes. So far, international treaties have blocked exploitation of resources in Antarctica but known deposits of minerals and petrochemicals beckon.

"Eco-tourism" is supposed to be the new wave, injecting money into communities and providing an incentive to preserve natural treasures. And in a city like Ushuaia at the bottom of Tierra del Fuego, tourists are a major source of income.

But there are no human communities in Antarctica and so eco-tourism really benefits those who live elsewhere. And no matter how carefully tours are managed, there will be significant detrimental ecological impacts by even the most well-intentioned visitors.

There is growing support to make the entire continent a permanent ecological park. Were that to happen, Antarctica could signal a newfound humility and self-control and respect for other creatures that share the planet with us.

Structure helps children adapt to rules

The following questions have been submitted by families in Haliburton County and are answered by professional staff at Kinark Child and Family Services. If you have questions, write to us c/o The Minden Times, "Family Matters".

Q: What is a good bedtime for a seven year old? My son often stalls when it's time for bed — it seems to take forever!

A: All children have different tolerance levels and need different amounts of sleep. You will be the best judge of what signs your child shows when his/her tolerance is low. In general, 8 p.m. is an average bedtime for children 6 to 8 years old.

Also, some children seem to need more structure and predictability than others in order to get to bed. You might find it helpful to make a list of the steps, such as brushing teeth, getting clothes ready for the next morning, etc. Make this list with your son's help and give him a chance to negotiate the steps. Then post it on his bedroom wall where he can check it as needed.

At Kinark we often talk to parents about "Preview and Review". When children have to make a change in their day - stopping playing to come in before supper, going up to bed, and so on - it's good to preview what's ahead - give them a 10 minute warning, then a five minute one, so they'll be prepared. And the next morning, if your son has had a good bedtime, review it with him - tell him how pleased you were with what he did, and that he must feel pretty good about it himself.

Q: Our children are trying to convince us to rent restricted movies even though they are under age. Do other children watch these movies?

A: As you probably know, movies are restricted for content levels of graphic violence, "adult" language (swearing), and nudity or sexually explicit activity. Generally, movies need to be assessed for the level of fear they inspire in children. This means there is no hard and fast

Family Matters

by Kinark Staff

rule.

Generally, it is best to watch the film yourself first. If you feel your children can tolerate the movie, then watch it with them. By discussing parts of the movie and comparing the value system in the story with your family values, you can help your children become better able to make their own decisions when they are older.

Q: I have a five year old son and a new-born baby daughter. My son has always been loving and gentle, but I caught him pinching the baby yesterday. How can I handle this? I am so surprised and disappointed.

A: You have begun on the right track! You are in touch with your own feelings about the incident. Your child too is experiencing feelings which he is expressing by pinching the baby. And these are very normal feelings - jealousy about a new child getting some of the attention he has always had.

You can help your son show his feelings in more constructive ways by talking to him about his feeling and showing him you understand. In other words, don't start off by expressing anger. Saying something like, "It must be rough to watch everyone fuss over your new baby sister even though you know everyone fussed over you like that when you were her age.", will open the door for him to say whatever else he might be feeling, and give him permission to have these feelings. Your son is also old enough to feel that he can play a role as "big brother" - for example, you can ask his opinion about some things ("Do you think it's time for her bath?"). Also, even though it's a busy time for you, try to remember to spend some individual time with him as well.

Q: Homework is such a hassle! I can't even get my son to bring home his books so he can do his homework.

A: Behaviour which you reward or give attention to is increased; behaviour you punish will decrease. But remember - rewarding is more effective than punishing! Bringing homework books and journals home feels like punishment - usually because the child feels different, or even stupid. Remembering homework has to be coupled with something positive and rewarding, like being allowed to stay up late one night. It helps too if you can make homework a bit exciting, by showing your own interest in the subject. When your child sees your enthusiasm for learning, he'll want to get some of this attention too.

The information in this column is not intended to be complete answers to the questions raised, and therefore may not be fully applicable to your family's circumstances. For assistance with problems, readers are welcome to call Kinark Child and Family Services, 457-2555.

Letters for freedom

Amnesty International seeks help

Writing letters for Amnesty International is a deeply satisfying and also a most stimulating experience.

This is the message that Minden resident Morris Duff attempted to deliver when he was one of two speakers at a breakfast meeting following the early service on May 8 at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton.

Duff, a member of an Amnesty group in Toronto before he moved to Minden, told of writing letters to many world leaders, including Cuba's Fidel Castro, and the Republic of South Africa's F. W. de Klerk. His letters were written to urge the release of people imprisoned for their beliefs.

Speaking with Duff was Jim Milne, a teacher at J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School, who is attempting to organize an Amnesty International chapter in Haliburton County.

Milne told how the buying of a new shirt made in Myanmar, formerly Burma, triggered a memory of reading about a woman doctor in that country. He had read in the Amnesty International Bulletin about Ma Thida, a 27 year old doctor who was given a 20 year prison sentence for non-violent opposition to the Myanmar government.

Amnesty International members are urged to write heads of state to protest what appear to be injustices against citizens who peacefully oppose a government. Amnesty International does not organize protests where violence or criminal activity occurs.

Milne said he wrote a letter urging the immediate and unconditional release of Ma Thida. He urged that others attending the breakfast also write letters of protest.

Duff said that rarely, but occasionally, one does get a response to an Amnesty letter. He told of receiving a Christmas card from a Czech violinist who had been imprisoned by the Communist regime that existed in that country.

The violinist, as a Christian conscientious objector, had refused to serve in the army and had been jailed. He had heard of the activities by the Toronto group protesting his imprisonment and had sent the Christmas card in appreciation. He was released shortly after that.

Amnesty International has said that their campaigns of letter writing to protest the arrest of "prisoners of conscience" are effective, Duff said.

If you are interested in writing such letters please phone Jim Milne at 754-1294 or Morris Duff at 286-6079.

VON offers incontinence program

The Victorian Order of Nurses, Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton Branch, will conduct an education and support program available to anyone in the community suffering from loss of bladder or bowel control (incontinence).

This problem affects more than 12,000 people in the three counties.

Many people with incontinence do not seek medical help because they are embarrassed, do not think help is valuable, or accept the myth that incontinence is a natural part of the aging process.

But incontinence should never be ignored because it may signal a serious health care need. Incontinence is a symptom, not a disease, and the underlying conditions that cause it are often treatable.

The "I Will Manage" program consists of group sessions facilitated by a nurse continence advisor. Group members will learn about incontinence and its causes and how the condition can be cured, treated, or managed. The program is designed to give participants the information they need to improve their lives, and the emotional support that will encourage them to take positive action.

The first session will be held at the VON Adult Day Centre, 1600 Lansdowne Street West, Peterborough, on Wednesday, May 25. The sessions are free and confidential, and are open to family members or anyone suffering from incontinence.

For more information about the program, or to register, please call the VON Peterborough office at 745-9155.

Residents enjoy Lindsay trip

This past week was a busy one as usual. Now that the weather has improved we were able to take a bus trip to Lindsay to do some shopping.

Saturday, Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Montgomery of Coboconk brought a group of musicians to the Trillium Lounge. We enjoyed their music and are very grateful to them for coming.

Sunday, Stella Burch came to read from the book we have been enjoying. Thank you Stella. In the evening, Rev. John Burgess took the chapel service with June Mason playing the organ. It was enjoyed by all and we thank them both.

Monday we had our breakfast and then boarded the bus to go to Lindsay shopping centre. Muriel Harrington took her own car as she is not able to ride on the bus. She took Lillian Davidson, Dottie Muirhead and Winnie Barnum with her. We arrived ahead of the bus so thought we would have a coffee or tea and hot muffins, on the house to anyone over 65. Lillian and Winnie got free lunch. Soon the bus arrived and everyone went their separate ways. At 2 p.m. it was all aboard for the trip back to Hyland Crest. A good time was had by all.

Tuesday chapel was conducted by Barbara Trocewicz, who was filling in for Father Brian Parker from the Anglican Church. We enjoyed an enlightening message. Thank you Barbara. In the afternoon we had crafts, making Mother's Day gifts and placemats for the table on Mother's Day. The volunteers were Dottie Muirhead, Donna Wallace and Pearl Cowan. In the evening we had two tables of cards with Corinne Arsenaault giving us support. Thank you for the enjoyment, Corinne.

Wednesday morning there was fitness as usual. In the afternoon the children were supposed to come from CHACE but couldn't so we had crafts, working on hats for use for Mexican day at the spring tea. In the evening Grandfathers Four became Grandfathers Two with Bill Payne and Elden Deacon. We had a good evening of music and singing. We thank them.

The staff of Hyland Crest staged a retirement party at Mark's Restaurant in honour of Marie Baker and Ken Fielding. Among the forty-some that attended there were also former staff members and a good time was had by all. We will miss them. Best wishes to both.

Thursday the Minden and area Horticultural Society provided a delicious tea in the auditorium. It included Ila Cooper, Peggy Harrington, Irene Fuhr, Nancy Cook, Jean Robson and Laura Kirkwood. In the evening Kathy Wood came and called Bingo. Thanks for your thoughtfulness, Kathy.

Friday morning several residents worked on making a Pinada for the Mexican day. We ended the week with our popular happy hour. This week we combined it with a joyous birthday celebration. Lucille Clarke was 90 years old. The Ladies Auxiliary served cake and ice cream while the music played and residents danced. What a celebration. Lucille's special guests were her husband, Pat, and her nephew Gary Braund and his wife. Entertainment was by Les Schell, Earl Cooper and Sid Cooper. Volunteers were Mary Guillemin, Dottie Muirhead and Don Holden. Thank you everyone.

Warden Jim McMahon presented Lucille with plaques from the County of Haliburton, the Prime Minister, the Ontario Government and Hyland Crest.

Welcome to our new residents, Beatrice Tustin and Lillian Martin. We also are pleased to welcome aboard Peter Fearrey as supervisor of the laundry and housekeeping departments.

The end of a busy week. See you next time.

Health Unit promotes safety

Contest marks speech-hearing month

May has been proclaimed by the Ontario and the Canadian Association of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists as Speech and Hearing Month.

The purpose of Speech and Hearing Month is to raise awareness of communication disorders, the importance of early detection and treatment of communication disorders and the professionals who treat these disorders. The information being provided will also show how individuals can protect themselves from acquiring communication disorders.

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit's speech-language pathologist is marking the month with a contest for grade 4 students. The contest has a communication safety theme: "Head Smart - Great Start." First, second and third prizes will be awarded. Prizes have been donated by the Canadian Tire Associate Store, Zeller's County Fair, and Sommerville's Sporting Goods Store all in Coburg, and Glen Sharpley's Sports in Haliburton.

It's easy to enter. To do so, any grade 4 student should make a list of things that he or she can do to protect his or her communication skills. Beside each item on the list, name what communication body parts are being protected. For example: Always wearing a seat belt protects the brain, ears, eyes, nose, teeth, mouth, voice box, and lungs.

The most complete and accurate list is the winner of the grand prize - a bicycle helmet.

Protect your communication skills and keep them for life.

For more information on communication disorders and related issues, contact your local health unit.

PUBLIC NOTICE

OF A MAJOR AMENDMENT OF THE TIMBER MANAGEMENT PLANS FOR THE MINDEN AND FROST CENTRE CROWN LAND UNITS

PUBLIC INFORMATION CENTRE

The Minden Area Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources is about to amend its timber management plans for the Minden and Frost Centre Crown Units. The current plans will expire in 1995; this amendment will add further logging areas for the 1 year period of 1995 - 1996.

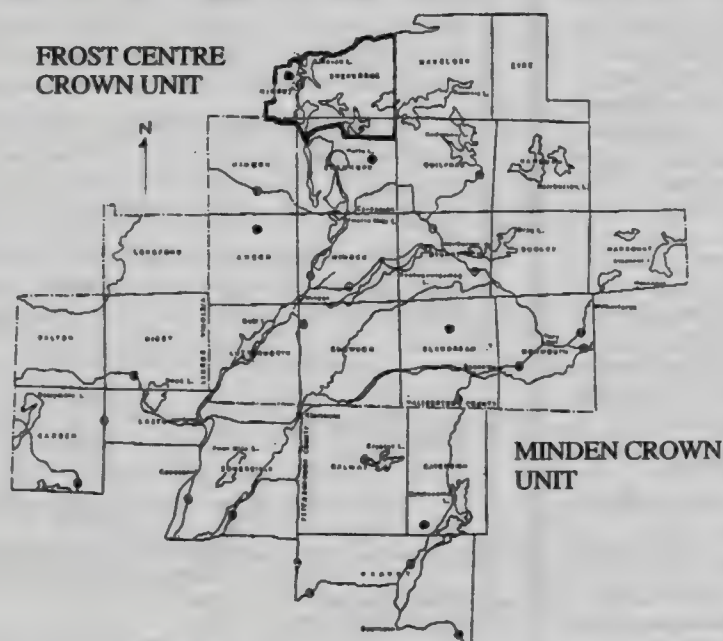

Crown land timber management plans govern all forestry operations conducted on Crown lands, including logging, reforestation, stand improvement work and logging road construction. New logging sites are proposed for Ridout, Stanhope, Glamorgan and Cavendish Townships, and new stand improvement areas are proposed for Anson Township.

You are invited to inspect the preliminary maps and other details of these areas at the Ministry of Natural Resources, Minden Office during the week of June 6-10, 1994. Office hours are from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. At this time you may view those measures being planned to protect wildlife habitat and other Crown land interests and values. If you are a member of the logging community, you should know that specifics on the number of timber sales and the expected yield of sawlogs, pulpwood and fuelwood will also be available.

If operations are proposed for an area on which you have an interest, you should ensure that your interests and any concerns you may have are made known at this time.

The deadline for comments will be July 11, 1994.

PUBLIC NOTICE TIMBER MANAGEMENT PLAN MINDEN CROWN UNIT INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE

The Bancroft District of the Ministry of Natural Resources is about to initiate a Timber Management Plan for the Minden Crown Unit. The plan will outline all areas eligible for road access, harvest, tending and regeneration for the 20 year period of 1996-2016. Specific areas proposed for management during the next 5 year term will also be included in this planning process.

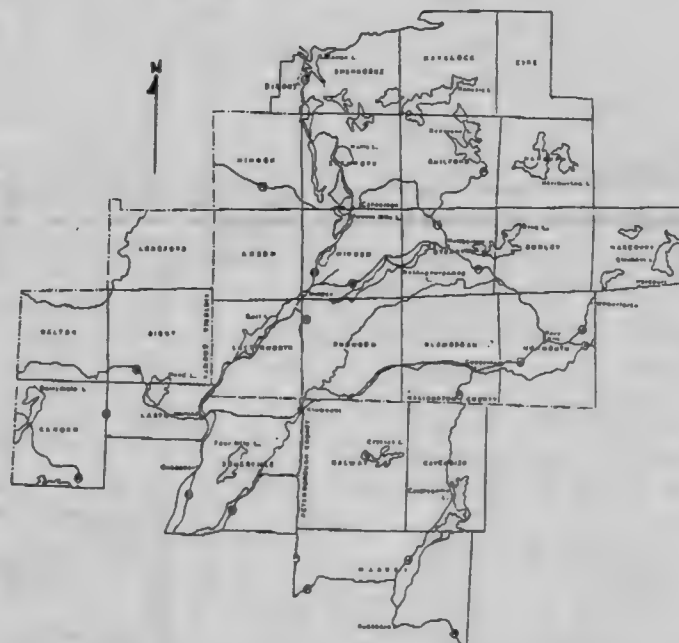

Public involvement is an important component of ensuring the sustainable and integrated use of our Crown land forests. The best time to make MNR aware of your views and concerns is now, during the preliminary planning stages. This notice is an invitation for you to become involved in the management planning process. Please let us know if you have interests which you wish to be considered in the plan. You can participate by identifying resource features, land uses, values or specific issues which may be affected by timber management activities.

An independent Local Advisory Group has been established to assist in the Plan preparation, with particular reference to encouraging and facilitating effective public consultation. The Advisory Group includes local representatives of such Crown land users as: anglers and hunters, naturalists, municipalities, forest industry, fur trappers, snowmobilers and cottagers.

The public will have four formal opportunities to comment (these dates may be subject to revision)

1. Invitation to Participate, May 14 to June 24, 1994
2. Information Centre, September 24 to October 31, 1994
3. Review of Draft Plan, July 20 to September 20, 1995
4. Inspection of Approved Plan, December 1 to December 31, 1995

HUGHES - In loving memory of a beloved husband, father and grandfather, Roy Hughes who passed away May 17, 1991. Just a prayer from the family who loved you

Just a memory fond and true, In our hearts you will live forever, Because we thought the world of you.

A golden heart stopped beating Two busy hands at rest, God took you to his heart To prove He only takes the best. It was a sudden parting Too sad to forget Only those who love you Are the ones who will never forget. Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife Rita and family.

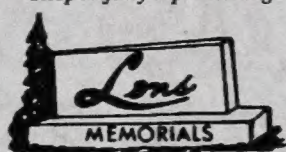

Drink and drive and you'll be seen in some new bars.

You can lose a lot more than your licence drinking and driving.  Ontario General
